Cagney O'Brien, 13, died following a 20ft fall while playing on a rope swing with friends on the Buckland estate. There is now a campaign to set up a bike park in the area where he died. His mother Danielle said: 'It's too late for Cagney now, but others can benefit from it.'

BY MARIJKE COX

A MOTHER who lost her young son in a tragic accident has started a petition for a bike park to be set up in the place where he died.

Danielle O'Brien's world was torn apart last month when her 13-year-old son fell 20ft to his death from a makeshift rope swing, leaving a "gaping hole" in her life.

Cagney had been playing with friends in Monks Way on the Buckland estate when the accident happened and since then the single mother has been suffering panic attacks and can't go out alone.

But now Danielle and two others close to the tragic teenager have started an online petition to get a bike or skate park set up in the area where he fell to give youngsters a place to go.

She said: 'This is really giving me something to focus on. It's only been running about nine days and already there are so many signatures.'

'There is a BMX park up here already, but Cagney told me he couldn't ride his bike there because it needed to be resurfaced to smoothe out all the bumps.'

'It's been left to ruin and only dog-walkers go there now.'

'That's why he was playing on the rope swing - otherwise he'd be up there on his bike.'

Danielle is aiming for 1,000 signatures to back the campaign.

She said: 'It's too late for Cagney now, but others can benefit from it.'

A plaque has also been unveiled at Rhodes Minnis Cat Sanctuary during a small ceremony in memory of the youngster.

Danielle said Cagney loved animals and

TOGETHER: Protesters on the seafront with east Kent Labour MPs Gwyn Prosser and Dr Steve Ladyman

MPs back lobby by port workers

BY MARIJKE COX

ANGRY workers at the Port of Dover have staged a noisy protest against the privatisation of their jobs.

Members of Unite, the UK's largest trade union, waved banners and blew whistles in front of Dover Harbour Board's headquarters at Harbour House on Monday morning.

Dover and Deal MP Gwyn Prosser and South Thanet MP Dr Steve Ladyman also attended before meeting with harbour board chief executive Bob Goldfield to ask him to reconsider the decision to outsource landside services.

If the plans go ahead, 190 jobs could be lost over the next 12 months and commercial contractors will run many of the port operations, including mooring and security services.

Mr Prosser said "The plans are not definite and are being resisted. A ballot has taken place with regards to industrial action and I'm sure the board will take notice of that."

"There will be further meetings between harbour board executives and Unite officials, and people such as Steve and I will continue to support workers in their struggle to oppose these unnecessary and untimely changes."

Dr Ladyman, a former Transport Minister, said: "I was asked to be here by my constituents who work in the port who are very worried about their jobs."

"I'm here to make sure the board and Bob Goldfield know exactly how they feel. These people have been loyal for decades and do a great job. "There seems to be no reason to put them at risk in the way that's been proposed."

Dover Harbour Board has stressed that under employment protection rules job losses would be "minimal".

But in a statement it said service operations at the port had to be opened up to competition, in line with European Commission objectives, before the second ferry terminal is built.

The workers lobbying Harbour House, however, believe that employment protection will only last 12 months and that after that they will be pushed out.

Peter Smith has worked at the port for 34 years, mooring ships and cruise liners.

He said: "I'd be happier if they could promise us redundancy pay, but they won't. I've been working here all these years and yet they're showing no loyalty."

After the meeting, Mr Prosser said: "Mr Goldfield failed to convince us of the need to impose such a radical change."

"He was also unable to justify why he and the board had taken a unilateral decision to rid themselves of their loyal workforce without any negotiation with staff or the union."

"Even for the most hard-nosed private employer such an attitude would be unacceptable, but for a public trust like Dover Harbour Board to behave in this way is unheard of."

they got their four cats from the centre in Folkestone.

Christopher Russell, chairman of the trustees at the sanctuary, said the teenager was a regular visitor with his mother.

He said: "He was very fond of all animals and liked to come up here and see the cats. Friends, family and people in the community made a donation to us of £1,158."

The plaque has been put up in the reception and a buddleia bush has been set up for cats with the feline Aids virus.

Mr Russell said: "The bush was given to us by Cagney's mother Danielle from her garden in memory of her son."

Danielle said: "The sanctuary is a special place for me and with the bush being planted I feel like a part of me and Cagney is there."

"He was my only child and it had just been us for ten years. There is a hole in my life that will never be filled and things will never be the same again. There's not a lot else for me to think about now he's gone."

Trust doubled up by Dave's funny money

MORE than £12,000 has been raised for Deal-based charity the Martha Trust thanks to a generous donation from a Folkestone company.

Basepoint, which owns Folkestone Enterprise Centre, promised to match funds raised at a charity dinner last month hosted by comedian Dave Lee.

Proceeds from the event reached £6,266 and this was doubled to £12,533 by the company. The dinner was part of a series of events arranged by the Martha Trust and Basepoint to be held over the next year.

Lorraine Grover, Folkestone Enterprise Centre manager, said they chose to support the Deal-based charity due to the quality of respite care it offers to profoundly disabled people.

She said: "I visited Martha Trust homes in Deal and was moved by the loving care provided."

Emily Shepherd, director of operations for the charity, said: "The money will go towards funding therapies and specialist equipment for young people at our Deal home."

Walk with ghosts on a tour through hidden passages

Dover Castle invites you to a spooky evening in DOVER Castle has always been considered one of England's most haunted castles.

According to staff at English Heritage, even the most cynical of people have been swayed by the spooky goings-on in the fort.

Some members of the public have even been brave enough to take part in ghost tours run over the Halloween period – many with frightening outcomes.

And this year, never-before-seen parts of the supposed haunted castle are being revealed to the public during the evening tours.

With the keep closed for renovation, the tours will instead lead through Hudson's Passage and Avranches Tower.

Christine Pascall, visitor operations manager at the castle, spoke to Yourdover about her ghostly experiences.

She said: "A lot of the stories you hear about are anecdotal, but there are also very clear, precise things that have happened."

"Many people who go on our ghost tours experience something – one time a woman became hysterical, saying she saw something, and had to be brought outside."

■ BY MARIJKE COX

Christine first got involved in the tours when she was covering for another member of staff and since then she has become fascinated by the spirits that lurk inside the walls of the castle.

She said: "Some parts are more haunted than others. In the wartime tunnels I'd say 99 per cent of staff have experienced something or heard footsteps when no one's been around."

Experiments have taken place to see whether they can prove there is something there.

In one area of the fort, coins were put on the floor and drawn around in white chalk. The door was locked so no one could enter, but when staff re-entered the coins had been moved.

Many of the spirits are also linked to documented events over the last 2,000 years.

Christine said: "There are lots of signs that spirits are here. That's not to say everyone will have an experience, but some, especially children, are more sensitive to it than others."

But Christine insists that none of the ghosts are aggressive, except a "malevolent" naval officer in the wartime tunnels.

She said: "There are different spirits from different eras. We even have a cat from World War Two which we hear meowing in closed tunnels."

According to Christine, Charles I is a regular visitor to the keep and when he is present there is a strong smell of tobacco in the air.

She said: "The way we can tell if there is a spirit around is through indications such as orbs, cold spots or the smell of roses."

"I've been sent many pictures of orbs from people on the tours."

But Christine doesn't let the spirits worry her: "I say good morning to them when I come in to work."

The evening ghost tours run on Fridays and Saturdays from 5.15pm to 8.30pm and cost £20 per person.

To book, phone 01304 211067.

Come together to support our health

HEALTH chiefs are searching for a group of volunteers to oversee projects in Dover, Deal and Folkestone.

The new research and development programme, by the East Kent Hospitals University NHS Trust, aims to bring together members of the public, patients and healthcare professionals to enhance the patient experience.

The Trust believes that by having multiple viewpoints it will be able to run effectively and reach a standard of excellence in all aspects of care.

For more details email Mohamed.sakel@ekht.nhs.uk or Susan Kelly on Susan.kelly@ekht.nhs.uk.

Skaters launch in to celebrations for park opening

A NEW state-of-the-art skate park is opening in Victoria Park in Deal.

Youngsters and families will be able to watch demonstrations and take part in competitions at the official launch ceremony tomorrow starting at 1.45pm.

The new facilities are designed for skateboarding, BMX and in-line skating and feature concrete bowls and a 'street plaza' with a jump wall and curved rails.

Dover District Council and Kent County Council have been working with a number of partners and SK8 Extreme Sports Group have been involved with the design.

Cllr Nigel Collor, DDC cabinet member for access and property management, said: "This new facility is a superb example of how we are working with community for the future of the area."

"We thank local skaters who have worked with us developing this project and look forward to further partnership working as we develop and improve facilities for all."

The scheme was funded by the KCC Local Board, DDC, Respect funding from central government and the Big Lottery Fund's Children's Play programme.

Alison Rowe, Big Lottery Fund head of the south east region, said she is delighted the project is up and ready to go: "This is an exciting example of how the programme is providing free and inclusive play opportunities for youngsters."

Bryan Cope, chairman of KCC Dover Local Board, is also pleased the park is opening.

He said: "We have worked closely with the young people to provide what they want."

"KCC Dover Local Board is pleased to be associated with such an important community project."

For an entry form to participate on the day contact DDC on 01304 872448 or visit www.dover.gov.uk.

Fears heroin batch is contaminated

POLICE are warning drug users about a bad batch of heroin believed to be in circulation in Dover.

A number of people have had adverse reactions to the drug supplied in the area over the past week and police have information suggesting the whole batch may be affected.

The Probation Service, SECAS, Kent Council on Addiction and the Port of Dover police are working with officers to make sure drug users are aware.

Information has already led to two addresses being searched and drug supply networks are continuously being targeted in south Kent.

Anyone with information about drug-dealing in the area can speak to their neighbourhood policing officers.

To find out how to contact them, visit www.kent.police.uk.

Anyone wanting support to beat drug addiction can phone Kent Council for Addiction on 01304 211999 or email dover@kca.org.uk.

Free sexual health advice for under-25s

A NEW free and confidential clinic is now open in the Dover district for young people who want sexual health screening services.

The clinic, led by specialist nurse practitioners, will test for sexually transmitted infections (STI) in patients who have no symptoms but think they may have come into contact with one.

Anyone under the age of 25 can go to the centre which is based in the Deal Clinic on Bowling Green Lane.

Opening hours are Mondays from 3.30pm-5.30pm.

Patients who have STI symptoms should continue to attend the GUM clinics at Kent and Canterbury Hospital, the William Harvey in Ashford, Folkestone Health Centre or Margate's QEQM.

For more information call the Sexual Health Helpline on 01303 228808.

NIGHTCLUB HAS MUSIC FOR US ALL

Club Indigo on Folkestone seafront has been given a facelift which includes the provision of a purpose-built smoking area.

Staff say this will cut down on noise levels as patrons will no longer congregate outside the front of the building to have a cigarette.

A more varied selection of music will also be played including hits from previous years.

Manager Chris Taylor said: "This new smoking area means that those that choose to smoke, can now do so without having to stand in the street and avoid any traffic that passes the venue."

"Another major plus point for having the area out the back is that noise levels out the front of the club during the night will be significantly reduced. This will benefit residents of the area."

The club is also changing its music policy and on both Fridays and Saturdays will open three separate rooms offering the biggest commercial dance hits and retro classics.

Advice to guide companies through these dark times

DOVER District Council has discussed ways it can help small businesses get through the doom and gloom of the credit crunch.

At a meeting last Wednesday, issues surrounding the current economic climate were brought forward and the council considered how bright the future of Dover looks.

Problems faced by small businesses were high on the agenda with a cross-party agreement that these are the "lifeblood" of the town and joint support is needed to see them through the economic downturn.

Support

It was also stated that the majority of people will get through the credit crunch, but that the council will give support to those who are struggling.

The council is already helping small businesses by offering a 50 per cent rate relief on those with a rateable value of less than £5,000.

At the meeting, Cllr Paul Watkins, Tory leader of DDC, also stressed that Dover is in a

■ BY MARIJKE COX

"better" position than other towns due to its recent successful bid for Growth Point status.

The government initiative gives local authorities access to millions of pounds to help them pursue large scale and sustainable growth.

With major regeneration in Dover, including the development of 10,000 homes and the Dover Town Investment Zone, Cllr Watkins is looking positively for the future of the district.

He said the growth bid will apply to businesses having difficulties and the funds will make a big difference to firms under threat of closure.

He said: "The growth designation brings us money in advance so we should be able to apply this to those people in trouble."

"Expansion in the district is also taking place and we need to take advantage of the opportunities it provides."

He also mentioned the close partnership with Dover Pride who is also working towards helping Dover's businesses.

Cllr Watkins said: "Through all this we must make sure we get the right voices heard in the right areas."

But Cllr Gordon Cowen, deputy leader of the Labour group, stressed he didn't want to give false hopes to the community.

He said: "Shops are starting to close down."

"We must build up our local economy and increase the opening of shops - this will keep it thriving."

He also mentioned plans for the St James site and the development of the Asda store.

He said: "Folkestone had talks with Asda at the same time as us and theirs is up and running now."

"We've got to instead look after these smaller businesses as they far outweigh the bigger ones."

The council's own financial situation was also looked at with the £1 million lost through Landsbanki and the "capping" of employment within the establishment.

It was agreed that redeployment and retraining will take place which could result in the loss of up to fifteen jobs, but would offer more "stability" to employees.

Town edges nearer to Fairtrade status

DOVER'S quest for Fairtrade status has moved another step closer as the final application process begins.

And with the town council surpassing the set criteria, supporters of the campaign are confident Dover will become one of many areas in the UK helping to stop poverty in developing countries.

Deputy Mayor of Dover, Cllr Sue Jones, has been fighting for Fairtrade status for the past year and despite a setback when a previous application was turned down, she is positive this time will be different.

She said: "We have worked hard to achieve the criteria and we tick all the boxes."

"In fact, the Fairtrade Foundation states that we must have six shops and three restaurants selling Fairtrade products and we are already beating these figures."

■ BY MARIJKE COX

Seven restaurants are already involved, including Le Salle Vert, The Allotment, Dickens Corner, Costa Coffee, the Three Cooks and De Bradelei Wharf's coffee shop, so hopes are running high.

Cllr Jones said: "We've worked with schools and community groups to get them on board and there is strong support from the town council."

"We'll submit the final application next month and then it's fingers crossed for the town."

Working closely with the council is Tammy Stewart-Jones from the Thanet Fairtrade Initiative.

She helped gain Fairtrade status for Thanet and is confident the same will be granted to Dover.

Cllr Jones said: "When we applied for the status before, I think we were trying to run before we could walk."

"This time, with the help and support of the community, as well as Tammy Stewart-Jones, I think we have a really good chance, and Tammy thinks so too."

A final decision will be made in February as Fairtrade Fortnight kicks off.

The two week campaign aims to raise awareness of ways to encourage fair working conditions and fair prices for goods produced in developing countries.

Cllr Jones said: "We strongly support the Fairtrade initiative here in Dover and hopefully this will be recognised."

The first town to be awarded the status was Garstang in Lancashire in April 2000.

There are now more than 300 Fairtrade towns in the UK and a further 200 campaigning towards it.

Plans for Dieppe crossing

A NEW ferry service running from Dover to Dieppe is being considered by Dover Harbour Board.

An application has been put in by ferry firm LD Lines who recently secured approval from the Port of Dover to run a service to Boulogne.

The application for a service to Dieppe is currently being looked into and consulted upon with port users.

Dover Harbour Board said a decision is likely to be reached in November.

AS POIGNANT AS EVER...

Since the end of the last world war there has only been one year, 1968, when British service personnel have not been killed in the service of their country.

Of those who survive, many are either physically or emotionally injured in the course of their service and they, and their families, are left to pick up the pieces.

Last week civic leaders and military commanders from across Kent gathered at County Hall in Maidstone to attend the launch of the Kent Poppy Appeal - with children from Folkestone making the main presentation to veterans.

Poppies were presented to veterans of the Second World War, the Gulf War and conflicts in Afghanistan and Northern Ireland by children from All Souls' Church of England Primary School. The event was hosted by county council chairman Peter Lake.

He said: "In these tough economic times everyone suffers and the serving and ex-service community are no exception. With current operations in Iraq and Afghanistan we are reminded that the human cost of conflict is sadly ongoing and that the Poppy Appeal is still as relevant now as it ever has been."

Town hall jobs set to go as credit crunch takes its toll

JOB cuts have been confirmed at Dover District Council as it struggles to cope with the current economic crisis.

Up to 15 workers will go, saving the council a possible £500,000 as it tries to cope with a deficit of £750,000.

But to keep the number of redundancies down, a system of retraining and redeployment is taking place and a system of 'capping' will help in reducing the size of the authority.

Nadeem Aziz, DDC chief executive, said it was a "pragmatic and timely solution" which would offer "some form of employment stability at an unstable time".

It was unanimously decided at a council meeting on Wednesday last week that it was the most "viable" answer to the economic downturn.

Cllr Ben Bano, leader of the Labour group, recommended that further discussions be made with trade unions as the situation evolves.

He said: "These are worrying and serious times and although I don't want to stand in the way I'm aware that we need to keep some Unison control on this."

This was received with cross-party support and it was unanimously decided that capping and redeployment was the way forward to help deal with the financial struggle.

Foreign offshore wages brought into spotlight

MP Gwyn Prosser has spoken in Parliament about the issue of "poverty wages" being paid to foreign seafarers.

The MP for Dover and Deal is backing maritime union RMT, which is calling for an amendment to the Employment Bill to stop foreign workers on foreign vessels being paid well below the UK minimum wage.

Currently, a loophole in the law means they only receive the minimum wage if they are working in UK internal waters, such as rivers and ports. As soon as they work 12 miles from the coast, in territorial waters, they get paid considerably less.

According to Mr Prosser, a Cypriot-flagged ship sailing in British waters is paying its foreign workers just £295 a month for a 40-hour week. In another case an Indian-flagged vessel is said to be paying as low as £1.63 an hour.

Mr Prosser said: "Our concerns on the matter are on two levels. The exception of foreign seafarers from the minimum wage allows exploitation of foreign workers and secondly undermines employers of British seafarers."

Some employers choose to employ foreign workers over British people as it costs them less. Mr Prosser said: "Shortly the Employment Bill is coming before Parliament and I want to use this as a lever against the current policy."

"I will put forward amendments to the Bill to bring about change. Government will resist this, but at the least it will concentrate their minds."

RMT general secretary Bob Crow said: "Gwyn Prosser has done a huge service by raising the shame of poverty wages being paid to seafarers working on ships that ply only between UK ports or service the UK offshore sector."

He stated that the Government should make a "straightforward" amendment to the Employment Bill to change "this shameful loophole".

He added: "When the minimum wage was brought in, the Government assured us it would apply to seafarers. But there are employers out there paying seafarers at rates that would land them at court if they tried to get away with paying that on dry land."

QUESTION & ANSWER

MONICA BOX

Q Can you tell me a little bit about what you were doing before you came to South Kent College (SKC)?

A I was principal of City College Manchester with the particular brief to lead it into merger with another large college in the city. Although based in Manchester, the job took me all over the country as City College was the largest provider of prison education in the country so I visited prisons right across England.

Earlier I was principal of Calderdale College based in Halifax, West Yorkshire. In many ways this was much more like the area served by SKC because it had both urban and rural populations.

Q What is your favourite thing about being principal of SKC?

A If I had to choose one thing that I enjoy most about being principal of SKC it would be the opportunity it gives to meet young learners who are so involved with learning new skills.

We have over 2,000 students aged 16-18 across our three sites and I have lots of opportunities to drop in on their practical sessions and actually see them developing new skills on a daily basis.

I must say that's easily the best way to keep in touch with what this job is really about.

Q What is the hardest part of the job?

A Probably cutting back on resources. Anyone who works in the public sector should want to provide the best service that money can buy, and I certainly want to do that.

Unfortunately SKC has spent more money on providing services to students than it has been allocated so now we need to get back to a position where we spend only what we earn. That's not easy to do, but it's the right thing to do.

Q How are you feeling about the merger that is taking place with West Kent College?

A It provides another big opportunity for our college. There is a lot of work to do before the merger can take place and everyone here at SKC is keen to help the process along.

Q How do you think this will benefit SKC?

A A fresh start can be an enormous benefit to many organisations, so both SKC and WKC stand to benefit from the merger proposal.

The key to success will be making sure that the best of both colleges is preserved whilst new opportunities are grasped. There is a huge amount that is good about SKC even before merger and we will work with our merger partners to build that into the new college.

Q What obvious changes are going to take place through the merger?

A It's very likely that the new college will have a new name and begin to establish a new identity, so there will be some obvious changes right from August 1, 2009.

Other changes are more likely to develop less quickly and these will include changes to the buildings and courses that are available in each location.

The need for skilled people is growing so the college will want to grow to meet that need.

Q What do you get up to outside of work?

A I enjoy being with my family and friends. In particular I love to cook and often find all kinds of excuses for having people around just because I want to cook a lovely meal and sit round the dinner table with some good company.

I'm very interested in politics and the economy so there's plenty to keep my interest levels high at the moment.

Q What future hopes do you have for the college?

A I'd like to see the new college provide the best, most up-to-date services, facilities and learning opportunities possible to our learners.

I would want them to be as good and preferably better than anything available in any area of further education in the country.

Some of this may need to be achieved through strong partnership working – that's fine because what we should be aiming for is the best service available to the highest number of people.

Trialling extended hours for Blood Test services at the Folkestone NHS Walk-in Centre

The NHS in Eastern and Coastal Kent is pleased to announce a temporary extension of availability and opening hours of blood test services at Folkestone NHS Walk-in-Centre, part of the Royal Victoria Hospital in Radnor Park Avenue.

The extended blood test service will be open for 3 extra hours in the weekday evenings and Saturday morning to test the demand and impact of providing extended Phlebotomy Department opening hours.

The temporary service is available 6 days a week until Saturday 14th March 2009

The opening hours during this trial period are:
Monday to Friday 8.30am – 7.00pm / Saturday 9.00am – Midday

A blood test, during the extended service, will be available as part of your treatment when visiting the Walk-in Centre or by a referral from your Doctor.

It is hoped that this temporary extension will give patients improved access when attending the Walk-in Centre.

After the 24 week trial period the number of people using the extended service will be assessed to see if this service should be available for longer hours in the long term.

Go-ahead for £600m plan to improve county schools

BY NICK AMES

A £600 MILLION project to improve education across the county has received the green light.

The Building Schools for the Future programme will now get under way with four schools in Thanet, one in Herne Bay and one in Whitstable among the first to benefit.

Kent County Council has signed a contract for the project with three development partners, using money from central government.

A further 25 schools across Thanet, Swale and north Kent are among the next to be considered.

The plan is also set to benefit the construction industry and as part of the deal with the Land Securities Trillium, BSF Investments and Northgate Education a total of 400 apprenticeships will be offered.

Among the first schools to be transformed are Charles Dickens, Dane Court and St George's CE in Broadstairs, King Ethelbert in Birchington, the Community College Whitstable and Herne Bay High School.

The project is part of a countywide initiative on education worth £1.8 billion – the largest school-building project in Europe.

KCC's cabinet member for education operations, resources and skills, Mark Dance said: "The signing of this contract marks a historic day for education in Kent. The Building Schools for the Future programme will see radical transformation of school buildings in the county.

"State-of-the-art technology, fantastic learning and teaching environments and unrivalled community facilities will have a huge impact on generations to come. This is an enormously exciting time."

And the county council's managing director for children, families and education, Graham

Badman, said: "The timing of this contract marks the start, not the end of the process."

"This process will give Kent and other authorities a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity not just to transform the schools through rebuilding but to create the circumstances that will determine a 21st-century curriculum where the needs and ability of the learner are central to the school curriculum."

But a row over who should get the praise for the project has broken out.

Thanet South MP Stephen Ladyman has attacked KCC as "pathetic" for issuing a statement which he says claims sole credit for a project which is actually a Government-funded initiative.

Dr Ladyman said: "Building Schools for the Future is indeed a magnificent project and as KCC acknowledges it is an ambitious plan that will eventually see every secondary school rebuilt or refurbished – but it is not a county initiative."

"Building Schools for the Future is a Government programme, a Government initiative and it relies on Government funding. Certainly local programmes are planned and implemented locally, but in a partnership one partner should not try to deny the involvement of the partner that makes it all possible."

"For KCC to try to take the credit for this scheme and not acknowledge the role of Government in making it possible is pathetic. They should apologise at once."

BE SCARE: Police are calling on trick and treaters not to overstep the mark this Halloween

Don't take trick or treat too far

TRICK and treaters are once again being urged to respect people and property ahead of this week's Halloween celebrations.

Friday is Halloween and the tradition of youngsters going door-to-door looking for treats sees thousands take to the streets.

But county Neighbourhood Watch co-ordinator, Terry McCormick, is reminding everyone who takes part in trick and treating to remember not to overstep the mark.

He said far from it being fun, older people can find the experience frightening and urged revellers to respect the Kent Police signs in windows which state homeowners will not open the door to trick or treaters.

He added if they do not get a reply, they should not persist as it may be the person inside is scared.

The advice is part of Kent Police's Safer Autumn Campaign – an initiative offering residents, businesses and young people advice to help them stay safe at this time of year.

Mr McCormick said: "Unexpected callers at the door can cause some anxiety for older people, particularly for those who live alone."

"When those callers present themselves in the dark, often wearing scary face masks, it can be a traumatic experience, and it is clearly unacceptable to inflict such distress on older people."

"Without wishing to impinge on the traditions of Halloween, we would ask trick or treaters not to call on older people and to please keep their activities lawful."

"The recent creation of our Senior Watch scheme has allowed us to contact many hundreds of pensioners with information and police will be taking action if Halloween activities result in criminal offences."

Train your dog to get through fireworks night

THE RSPCA has teamed up with the Co-op supermarket chain to help raise awareness of how to ease the misery suffered by the county's pets left terrified by fireworks.

The story will help distribute a new leaflet produced by the RSPCA which gives practical advice on how owners can use sound therapy to overcome their dogs' long-term fear of loud noises that have traditionally caused so much distress to animals during the Guy Fawkes celebrations.

Mark Evans, the RSPCA's chief vet, said: "Every year, fireworks and other loud noises are a source of great anxiety for many dogs. But what most owners don't realise is that this is a treatable problem. Scientifically proven therapy tools such as the Sounds Scary! CD, can help to teach dogs to be less afraid of fireworks, so the next fireworks season will be less stressful for both the owner and their dog."

An estimated 45 per cent of dogs in the UK show signs of fear when they hear fireworks!

– meaning up to three million dogs could be affected this Bonfire Night.

The RSPCA wants to spread the message that pet owners do not have to watch their canine companions suffer every year.

The Co-op will give the charity's new firework leaflet to anyone who buys fireworks from any of its stores. It contains tips on how to help dogs leading up to and on the nights fireworks are set off, and is available at www.rspca.org.uk/fireworks.

The four boys who might just never grow up

BY ANNA WHITE

FOUR boys will be visiting Neverland this Christmas after being chosen to star in the Orchard Theatre's pantomime.

The young actors from Dartford and Bexley will share the roles of John and Michael Darling in the Dartford theatre's production of Peter Pan. Robert Gain, six, Taylor Egan, 13, George Anderson, 10, and Tom Gills, 13, will play an important part in bringing JM Barrie's classic tale to the stage.

All four boys attend the Liz Burville Performing Arts Centre in Bexley, which is also providing the rest of the children for the cast. The director is comedian Joe Pasquale, who also stars as Captain Hook's hapless sidekick Smee, who will put their performance skills to the test.

Mr Pasquale has already praised the standard of this year's young actors, who make such an important contribution to the magical story of the boy who never grew up.

"This year they are exceptional," he told KOS Media. "They have got a big part to play in bringing the Darling family and the Lost Boys to life."

The pantomime is sponsored by Buss Murton Solicitors, who have chosen Ellenor Lions Hospices as their charity this year.

Charlotte Harris, branch manager at Buss Murton, and Linda Trew from the charity congratulated the boys on winning the coveted roles.

• Peter Pan will be at the Orchard Theatre from Friday, December 5 to Sunday, January 11. Tickets are priced from £15. To book, phone the box office on 01322 220000 or book online at www.orchardtheatre.co.uk.

Wash your hands to help save lives

THE head of nursing in west Kent has highlighted the message that simply washing your hands can save lives.

Barrie Collins, director of nursing and infection control and prevention at NHS West Kent, said the primary care trust was launching a national initiative across its six community hospitals called Clean Your Hands, on Monday.

District nurses, health visitors and other healthcare professionals in the community will also be talking to patients about the need for basic hand hygiene, he said.

The launch comes after Infection Control Week, which ran from Monday to Friday, to raise awareness about the work being done to protect patients from superbugs and other infectious diseases.

Mr Collins said: "We have trained staff and put up notices about the campaign and we've already got hand-gel containers."

"It is basically reminding people of the importance of washing your hands and that it is everyone's business – it is the single most important thing we can all do to stop the spread of infection."

The initiative from the National Patient Safety Agency has been running in acute hospitals across the country and the PCT is among the first to introduce it in community services facilities.

KOS Media has been running a campaign across Kent since February to highlight the importance of hand-washing and basic hygiene in the battle against killer bugs such as MRSA and Clostridium difficile.

Infection rates are down but Mr Collins explained how with infections like Norovirus, or winter vomiting disease, now is an important time to take precautions.

He said: "It's important not to visit hospitals if you have been sick or had diarrhoea because it can spread easily."

"Also, we heat our houses in the winter which creates warm environments where bugs can grow, so we have to be vigilant."

Air ambulance chief's bid to win fuel cash back for charity

THE chief executive of Kent Air Ambulance Trust has launched an appeal to claim back Briton's money after airline price fix.

On September 26, the Northern District Court, in San Francisco, ruled British Airways and Virgin Atlantic airlines repay over £73 million to British victims, for their part in an alleged unlawful fuel surcharge price fixing arrangement.

Anybody who flew long-haul with either airline between August 11, 2004 and March 23, 2006 are entitled to claim up to £20. In America, if affected passengers do not claim their refund by 2012 the unclaimed money will be donated to a specific charity to avoid the airlines profiting from the scheme.

This is not the case in England.

Chief executive Mr Philpott, travelled to San Francisco in April this year, to persuade the court to allow the UK to have the same rights, and allow English charities to benefit from the payout.

But the airlines refused to budge.

Determined Mr Philpott, proposed a motion to allow passengers to tick a box on a claim form or online, and donate their refunds to charity.

But British Airways refused, saying: "Thus, Settlement Class Members who submit valid claims and receive refund payments can easily give that money to the charity of their choice if they so desire."

Mr Philpott said: "There is £73million up for grabs, which if gift aided to charity would amount to almost £100million."

"As the credit crunch bites, charities will need to be ever more resourceful in their fund-raising and this is a pain-free way to ask supporters to help."

"By registering a claim and then passing that money onto the charity of their choice, thousands of good causes can benefit."

• Mr Philpott has launched the website www.givethatmoneytocharity.co.uk where passengers who think they may be entitled to claim from the price fix can register their details.

A PUPIL from a school in Deal has won a young inventors competition with a machine designed to revolutionise football refereeing.

Arran Hope, a year five pupil at Northbourne Park School, came up with a device called Referee as part of a Government-backed project, the 2008 Cracking Ideas competition.

His design, a wrist camera allowing referees to replay action on the pitch, scooped first place and he walked away as the South East winner.

The youngster even added a screen to his device which flips out automatically, allowing a referee to watch replays on a hands-free kit.

Sarah Rothwell, head of art at the school, said the children put a lot of effort into the competition.

She said: "The children worked so hard on the project and they really enjoyed the whole process."

"I am really impressed with the initiative and how it managed to draw out the creative instinct in the children while still keeping a strong educational element to the process."

The competition was judged by the UK Intellectual Property Office, which rated Arran's design as one of the best inventions nationwide.

He will now compete against six other schools from around the country for the national title, which is judged by Wallace and Gromit creator Nick Park.

Among the prizes awarded to Northbourne Park School was a laptop, DVDs and board games signed by the academy award-winning film-maker.

If Arran's design is successful in the national competition, they will be presented with a trophy made by Aardman Animations and will see a preview of the new Wallace and Gromit film A Matter of Loaf and Death.

The Cracking Ideas project

■ BY MARIJKE COX

was developed by the UK Intellectual Property Office to encourage innovation within young people.

Education Minister David Lammy said: "This competition is all about encouraging young people to translate their imagination into reality. Britain has a wonderful tradition of creativity and we want to nurture the next generation of inventors."

"This is a fine example of what youngsters can do when they get their chance."

BREAK TIME

A taste of working life on the ocean wave

MORE than 1,000 pupils from schools across Kent have attended a jobs fair at Dover's cruise terminal.

The aim of the day was to show opportunities within the maritime industry to help reverse the declining numbers of people training for jobs at sea.

Over the last 30 years, the number of British seafarers has fallen from 90,000 to 30,000.

Admiral Lord Michael Boyce, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, and the Duke of Gloucester attended the event on October 17 and spoke to students about jobs in the maritime industry.

During the Kent Marine Skills Festival, youngsters were shown around two ships to get a taste of what life at sea can be like.

They were encouraged to consider maritime jobs, which include everything from engineers and deck officers to hairdressers and fitness instructors on modern cruise ships.

Saturday morning academy at grammar

DOVER Grammar School for Boys is holding a Saturday morning academy offering sport, music and language classes to youngsters in Dover.

Through the project, pupils from primary and secondary schools are being given the opportunity to learn Mandarin, French and German from 9am until noon on Saturday mornings.

Others can get involved with sports and music classes and a popular Yu-Gi-Oh! card trading club has also been established. Modern jive lessons are starting at the school on Tuesdays for six weeks beginning on November 4, and a musical fine arts series is under way, with visits from professional musicians.

It'll be a real treat not to see you at my door

TEN years ago, the middle classes quaked in darkened front rooms each Halloween as the streets seemingly filled with council tenants demanding cash and food.

Failure to deliver the required 'treat', so the popular feeling went, would result in the inevitable 'trick' and your house being coated in eggs – if you were lucky.

Everyone seemed to know someone who had failed to answer their door only for a gang of yobs to shove eggs, flour, dog poo, sticks of dynamite, or maybe even an elderly neighbour, through the letterbox.

Add a bit of stirring by some national newspapers and a climate of fear was introduced to the Halloween celebrations.

But despite the majority resisting the onslaught of a new reason to splash out so close to Christmas, the commercial world was determined to milk this new scary cash cow.

And so our shops were decked out in costumes, skeletons, fake blood and, to complete a surely somewhat ironic circle, fright masks of wizened old people with which to scare real old people. Weird.

Needless to say, if we're all exposed to it enough then we meekly accept it. And a decade on, there's a new generation of young parents who see Halloween as a key date to mark with a bit of good old trick or treating.

What's more, the old class divide is over. Now the middle classes are lining up with goodie bags to reap the rewards of a bit of good old-fashioned door-to-door scrounging, followed by apple bobbing and a pumpkin carving competition. All very civilised.

But the reality is that where once trick or treating meant nothing more than a threat of violence, it is now just a long night of irritations to be endured.

I suspect I won't be the only one switching all the lights off and pretending I'm not in for the duration. Some traditions die hard.

It's not a swipe at the horrible Americanism of the exercise, more a desire not to have to get up every five seconds and throw sweets in a bucket. Or, to be more accurate, have to put up with a group of surly teens as I throw a handful of penny chews in their bucket when they were rather hoping their 99p mask would induce me to hand over some hard cash.

But the saddest thing is how it has changed a part of the year I used to cherish. The turning of October into November meant two things when I was young.

Firstly, November brought the fun of making a Guy and a bonfire and enjoying the whizzbangs of the finest set of Standard fireworks we could get. Secondly, and, if truth be known, slightly more excitingly, it represented a real milestone in the countdown to Christmas.

Now, though, Halloween and bonfire night have been merged into a pain in the backside of a fortnight where walking the streets brings you face to face with kids in masks, or huddled around fireworks they are about to throw into some poor sap's garden. Or have I just turned into a miserable old sod?

WIN The insider's guide to what's hot and what's not EVER wondered whether the junk in your attic was worth anything? Or, if that old toy from your childhood should be kept?

Or perhaps you're thinking of collecting teddies but don't know where to start?

This September saw the publication by DK of The Antiques Roadshow Book of Collectables. Reaching in excess of six million viewers per week, the BBC's The Antiques Roadshow has been providing unrivalled antiques and collectables know-how for over 30 years.

A comprehensive fully-photographic guide to a broad range of collectables rather than an annual price guide of random pieces, this book aims to provide collectors with the most accessible information on how to identify and assess their collectable pieces in the most popular categories, including ceramics, glass, toys and teddies and books.

Within each area of collecting in the guide, you will find useful advice on the 'What's Hot' pieces, the items that are the most sought after and valuable; the 'Core Collection', items worth considering keeping in or adding to in your collection; and finally the 'Starter Buys', the ones likely to be easy to find and cheaper to start off a collection with.

In addition, detailed photography and supporting information in 'Look Out For...' and 'What's Not' panels give collectors advice on how to recognise good and bad pieces.

We have 12 copies of this book up for grab. To be in with a chance of winning simply answer the question below and send your entry on a postcard along with your e-mail address (if applicable), name, address, and daytime telephone number to Antiques roadshow book, KOS Media, Apple Barn, Smeeth, Ashford, Kent, TN25 6SR. The closing date is November 20, 2008.

Question: How many viewers a week tune in to Antiques Roadshow?

No purchase necessary. For our full terms and conditions see www.kentnews.co.uk or call 01303 817073. If you do not wish to receive any literature please write 'no literature' on your entry.

SUE DELLING

The Deal Town Labour councillor explains why it's such a special place

What brings you to the town of Deal?

I have family in the area and I used to have a caravan in Martins Mill so I've known Deal for a long time. A friend of mine came down here and I decided to move here too. Someone approached me after a short while and said I should stand for the town council, that was about nine years ago.

What is it like being a town councillor for Deal?

It's hard work, especially if you're an active councillor, but it's very rewarding.

I've taken leave of absence recently due to family commitments, but I'm hoping to get back into it in the new year.

I work with many voluntary organisations in the town - I'm the chair of Dover District Carers and Dover District Homestart as well as a board member of the Deal Festival of Music and the Arts.

I'm also an honorary friend of Deal Pathfinders. There's quite a lot to occupy me.

As a councillor what is the main thing you support within the town?

In this current economic climate I think it's very important to support small businesses - they are the lifeblood of Deal.

It's not a question of wanting more money, but needing more support. We must all work together as this will benefit everyone.

What is the best thing about living in Deal?

The friendliness of the people and the enthusiasm of everyone. It's a real 'can-do' place. I always get wonderful support from the community. It's a really positive place and people are always there to help each other.

YOUR LETTERS

There's plenty for young people to do

Far too often locally do we read of youths not being involved enough, or not having enough to do.

The reality is very different - there are actually plenty of opportunities if we want to get involved.

I am about to finish my first term as head prefect at Dover Grammar School for Boys - a school which is constantly positively changing, busy and ever so vibrant.

There are so many exciting things going on which not only DGSB pupils can benefit from, but other local adults and young people in Dover, too.

Saturday Morning Academy is currently being held, with language classes (Mandarin, French and German) running side by side with sport, music and a very popular Yu Gi Oh Card Trading Club, which is attracting many young people from both primary and secondary schools from within our community.

We are starting a modern jive class for six weeks from Tuesday, November 4, run by a professional dance school and hope that it will not only attract sixth-form students from all the secondary schools in the district but the whole community.

A musical fine arts series is also well under way, with visits from professional players.

Many students at DGSB are engaged in a range of interesting projects in the community.

Many will have heard of our Green Footprint Group, which has had an incredible year meeting inspirational people such as Kris Akabusi and Ben Sheppard and picking up many awards, but other students are involved in a range of projects.

These include a Dig For Dover scheme, jazz bands, primary-school teaching, debating societies, Young Enterprise, mentoring, work with the town council's Fairtrade steering group, the Rotary Club, Dover Chambers of Commerce and KCC's Youth Parliament.

All of this is down to dedication, inspiration and motivation from a host of teachers, pupils and local leaders. A huge thank-you is required.

Thus, when I hear local people moaning about lack of opportunity and grumbling about their lot and 'today's younger generation', I look around me and at what's going on in our school and am convinced otherwise.

I believe that many young people aren't given the credit they deserve.

The opportunities do exist - why not come and ask for more information about how you can get involved, too?

We need long-term airport thinking

No one denies the need for more jobs on Romney Marsh, but the expansion plans of the airport are simply the wrong way to do it.

The remoteness of the site, environmental dangers; both locally and worldwide; and the worsening financial recession make it folly to expand.

As regards B Godfrey's mention of the previous public inquiry in the early 1990s, these are of little relevance now as circumstances have changed considerably.

Also the costs of any new public inquiry on the current plans can be avoided by withdrawing them now rather than persisting.

As for employment in the area, it's more likely that the few extra jobs the expansion plans and aircraft repair centre; which Manston is likely better situated for anyway; might provide, could largely be replaced with more and better ones at firms making renewables tech.

These along with those created by expanding local tourism to a currently mostly quiet and peaceful area.

So, Shepway Council and the current owners of Lydd should change course to take full advantage of the recently announced increased Government support for the development of such energy alternatives. These could include home and office insulation firms, along with solar panel and other similar types of business.

They could also explore any monies from the EU under the new Renewables Directive for further help.

In addition, jobs could also be provided by investing in a couple of combined heat and power plants in the Shepway and Marsh areas to help supply the local energy grid.

It's been estimated that CHP plants across the UK could provide more energy than all the current nuclear stations, thus removing any need for an expensive and hazardous new build programme including at Dungeness.

A solar power 'farm', as being built in several places in Europe, could also provide both jobs and clean power locally.

While Lydd airport could remain as it is now, a short-hop and light aircraft venue with attached repair centre for those so preserving the existing jobs; it is the green sector manufacturing initiatives that must be the way forward for the area.

Locally all that appears lacking is the political will and leadership to do so. Time for a major change from the myopic and short-termist views currently on display at the council and airport.

Masons' money will help pay for mill

I would like to thank Yourdover for the splendid coverage given to the recent awards ceremony held at Crabble Corn Mill.

It really was a heart-warming good-news story.

On Saturday, October 11, Masonic members of the Province of South East Kent held their annual presentation day at Crabble Corn Mill, where they presented the mill and many other charities with financial donations.

Each charity in turn received their donation from the Provincial Grand Master and then gave a short talk, including where their donation would be used and how much it meant to the organisation.

As chairman of Crabble Corn Mill, I was pleased to accept from the Provincial Grand Master a £1,000 cheque on behalf of the mill.

I thanked the Grand Master and gave a short talk on the history of the mill and said the donation would assist in meeting the large annual overheads, which can be as much as £50,000 per year in repairs and utility bills.

Crabble Corn Mill is very grateful to the Masons for their kind donation and for their selection of the mill to host their presentation event, which was packed with people.

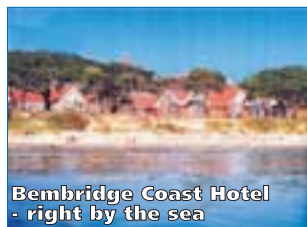

This is not the first time the Masons have supported the mill as many of the sponsors of its

Listen to the public over 'Angel' design

I wish to respond to the article in the October 8 edition of Yourdover (Why people's choice for 'Angel of the South' was cast aside).

Once again an attempt at public consultation has turned out to be a farce and a waste of money.

The favoured design of the panel, in my view, beggars belief.

Is Kent really to be represented by a painted steel lattice-work outlining a 'stack' of 26 different-shaped polyhedrons described as "a nest"?

I do not think it will rest easy as a representation of the Garden of England.

To my mind it is a hotch-potch far from the image of Kent in all its glory.

The reason for the shortlisted designs, I allege, is because they are the least popular.

Now in this day and age when we are dictated to by intellectuals, it is not fashionable or, it would seem, desirable to have a popular image.

From the outset I thought the Invicta horse, which represents Kent's image and has done for some time, should get the nod.

The artist who designed the horse should be commissioned accordingly, so we, the public, get what we feel is appropriate for Kent without artistic frills and intellectual nonsense.

To my mind, the Invicta horse is the trademark of Kent recognised regionally, nationally and internationally.

I implore the panel and the sponsors to heed the public's views and not force upon them a decision guided by the views of academics, intellectuals and art experts out of touch with the public's perception of what Kent's symbol of representation should be.

Back to the drawing board for road plans

Once again we have seen a serious incident in London Road that has resulted in severe disruption on the Dover one-way traffic system.

Now three times in possibly as many months.

Standing on the corner in Bridge Street watching articulated lorries negotiating Granville Street and then turn into Beaconsfield Road only emphasised the vulnerability of the side roads in Dover when closures are necessary on the main thoroughfare.

Many will recall some extensive roadworks, mainly in the High Street a couple of years ago – all of these disruptions add to the congestion we see frequently in parts of the town centre.

There are now improved bus services in the area and more frequent services and more low-floor easy-access buses on the way soon.

Many more people are using public transport and this year sees yet another increase in bus passenger figures over those recorded last year.

The upward trend in bus use needs to be encouraged to ease congestion.

Add to the congestion problems the air quality issues that are being monitored at Dover Town Hall and there is a strong case to really go back to the drawing board. Maybe road schemes introduced in Dover in the late 60s and early 70s no longer suit the way that transport is going in the 21st century as we turn towards reducing our carbon footprint and vehicle emissions in particular.

Cllr Nigel Collier
Dover District Council

Let's all pull together for new hospital

Like many of us, I am delighted it has been possible to find sufficient funding to build a state-of-the-art hospital.

It must surely be right to have the hospital in the centre of Dover rather than Whitfield, where people without their own transport can access it easily and where it can serve as a focus of much-needed regeneration and new jobs.

A well-designed building will avoid the risk of flooding, which may be a once-in-a-lifetime event.

At this critical stage let's avoid further controversy and all pull together to make sure that we get the hospital which Dover deserves as quickly as possible.

Elegant dining in the country

THE search is over. Are you after that perfect restaurant that combines good food with great service and a stylish setting?

Martin's Restaurant has got it spot on. And we should think so, as the popular village venue has just celebrated its 21st birthday. They must be doing something right.

It's hard to get the perfect balance when you go out for dinner; the desire for excellent food is often overshadowed by glitzy décor, or the good service surpassed by a seemingly fresh chocolate pud.

What Martin's has done for 21 years now is combine every element on the diners' checklist and package it in an approachable, affordable and enjoyable evening out.

Until a few years ago, the Boughton family-run restaurant epitomised everything we love about the Kentish countryside and, although it still champions it, you'll notice some refreshing changes.

These include a fresh new menu, with some old favourites – Julie and Paul Martin would have been condemned had the famous crab, avocado and cheese starter disappeared – and Paul's famous steaks remain as expertly prepared. But we welcome classic twists to the à la carte and set menus. All meals are freshly prepared on the night.

Martin's is a member of the Restaurant Association and winner of countless Clean Food Awards.

For a look at the monthly set menu or à la carte menu, see the new website, www.martinsrestaurant.co.uk.

Open Tuesday to Saturday evenings and Sunday lunches, 7pm, last orders 10pm. Sunday lunch: 12pm, last orders 2pm. Open Christmas Day, phone 01227 750304 to request a menu.

Or why not try the Friday night carvery? An array of fresh seafood, salads, roast meats and vegetables means you can create your own starter and main course for just £14.50. Simple, yet hugely satisfying.

Family's history of success

■ The Swingate Inn

THIS inn and hotel near Dover is a four-star, family-run business which has a long-running history of success when it comes to providing top-quality service.

Extremely popular is the venue's intimate candle-lit suppers which allow a very special setting for the consumption of delicious food and fine drink. Fresh food, all locally sourced with award-winning chefs, is the staple of a varied menu which provides top-quality cuisine at good prices in an informal setting.

With a civil wedding list the hotel is also a specialist in providing a whole range of services for your big day.

Proprietors Graham and Susan Dove have been in business for 30 years and their 18 months at the venue have brought it an increased popularity which has been built on a bedrock of success.

The inn is open from 7am until 11pm daily except Sunday when it closes at 10.30pm.

Customers come from all over Kent to sample local fish – a speciality – fresh meats and the best seasonal vegetables.

Best-selling dishes at present include wing of skate, pan-fried and served with a cockle butter or with prawns and capers.

The venue provides for up to 200 people, with award-winning chef Carl Johnson presiding over things in the kitchen where he keeps his calm but exercises his creativity.

Try Nelson's favourite venue

■ Sotirio's

COSTAS Sotiriou has been running the restaurant in Hythe for 15 years and during that time it has gained an enviable reputation among diners throughout the county and beyond.

Sotirio's specialises in international cuisine, with pasta, meat and fish dishes all featuring on the menu.

Among the most popular choice is a Sunday carvery, which has a spectacular rib of beef carved at the table as one of its centrepieces.

Set in a building which used to house a historic pub called Nelson's Head – in truth it was once a favourite of the legendary British admiral himself – it is a particularly traditional restaurant with its own unique atmosphere.

But Sotirio's is never afraid to be innovative and has various attractions which are drawing in the customers.

The venue can seat up to 80 people, who can enjoy a live vocalist on the second Wednesday of every month, while on the last Wednesday of each month a magician practises tricks to baffle and amuse diners in the evening.

A set menu priced at £20 for three courses runs from Tuesday to Friday. Sotirio's is closed on Mondays but open from noon to 2pm and 6pm-9.45pm Tuesday to Saturday. Sunday carvery is noon until 2.30pm and 7pm-9pm.

Word up

Literary legends flock to Folkestone

STARS of the written word will be flocking to Kent this weekend for Folkestone Literary Festival.

Billed as the most diverse and exciting festival so far, the nine-day event welcomes some of the biggest talents in the literary world. Along with talks by authors, discussions and activities, there is also music, comedy and film on offer.

The programme is bursting with tempting events, with each day featuring an enviable line-up of household names, fascinating speakers and activities for children and young people. There are also a number of fringe events taking place, from art exhibitions to a puppet show.

This Saturday the festival gets off to a fantastic start with a visit from bestselling author Joanna Trollope, who will talk about her new book, Friday Nights, and its exploration of modern friendship.

In the evening there will be an appearance by documentarian Nick Broomfield. With his film Battle for Haditha, Broomfield presents a cinema verité-style account of a real-life

FOLKESTONE LITERARY FESTIVAL

Saturday, November 1, to Sunday, November 9
Various venues, Folkestone

Iraq massacre in which US marines gunned down 24 civilians.

Paul Rose, co-presenter of the BBC TV series Oceans, and Countdown's resident wordsmith Susie Dent will be appearing on Sunday, while festival goers can test their own knowledge at a quiz night in the evening.

Fearless news reporter Kate Adie and Big Issue founder John Bird reveal the secrets of their extraordinary lives on Monday, while comedian Russell Kane explores the notion of the current population speaking in Shakespearean language in Fakespeare: The Lamentable Tragedie of Yates's Wine Lodge.

Tickets to see innovative poet John Hegley on Tuesday have already sold out, but poetry fans can test their own skills in a creative writing workshop with Canterbury's first Laureate, Patricia Debney.

Parliamentary sketch writer Quentin Letts provides an entertaining look at the 50 People Who Battered Up Britain on Wednesday, while Ffion Hague, wife of former Tory party leader William Hague, reveals the women in late prime minister David Lloyd George's life.

Thursday's highlights include audiences with comic legend Denis Norden, award-winning actress Maureen Lipman and writer Will Self, who presents his new book Liver: A Fictional Organ with a Surface Anatomy of Four Lobes.

Popular historian David Starkey talks about his biography of Henry VIII on Friday and the history theme will be taken across the festival's last two days, with day or weekend tickets on offer for the many events. The final weekend includes appearances by broadcaster Sandi Toksvig and Anne Perry, who was included in The Times' list of the 20th century's 100 Masters of Crime.

Step back in time and dance the night away as the festival draws to a close with the Blitz Ball at the Leas Cliff Hall.

THE DRIFTERS

Wednesday, November 5
Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone

AFTER more than half a century in the music business, The Drifters are still entertaining audiences all over the world.

The legendary band is back on tour to celebrate its 55th anniversary and the release of the first official album in 30 years. One of the biggest selling bands of all time, The Drifters have sold more than 214 million singles and 114 million albums worldwide.

Since it was formed in 1953 by Dominoes lead singer Clyde McPhatter and Ahmet Ertegun, the founder of Atlantic Records, there have been numerous line-up changes. Such legends as Ben E King, Charlie Thomas, Rudy Lewis and Johnny Moore have been part of the band in the past.

The band will perform the classic songs such as Saturday Night at the Movies, Under the Boardwalk, Come On Over To My Place and Kissing In The Back Row of the Movies, along with material from the new album Five Decades and Moore.

Tickets for the show, which starts at 7.30pm, are priced from £18 to £20. To book call 0845 4000890 or visit www.leascliffhall.co.uk.

SNAKE DAVIS

Friday, November 7
Granville Theatre, Ramsgate

ONE of the UK's leading saxophonists will be demonstrating why he is such an acclaimed musician next week.

Snake Davis is regularly in demand from some of the biggest names in British popular music, as well as some of the best talent from abroad. During his busy career to date he has recorded with a diverse range of stars including Ray Charles, Tom Jones, George Michael, Tina Turner, Take That, Cher, Kylie Minogue and the Spice Girls.

He has graced the stage with the likes of M-People, the Eurythmics, Edwin Starr and Boy George and worked on film scores with Dave Stewart, Pet Shop Boys and David Arnold. Numerous TV appearances included a spell as resident saxophonist on Tonight with Jonathan Ross, which led to performances with James Brown, Chaka Khan, Smokey Robinson and more.

Davis also played all featured flute and saxophone parts, both on recordings and on tour, for Lisa Stansfield and M-People.

The concert starts at 8pm and tickets cost £13.50/£12.50. To book call the box office on 01843 591750.

CRANBROOK AND TENTERDEN FOOD AND DRINK FESTIVAL

Friday and Saturday,
October 31 and November 1
Cranbrook and Tenterden

ALLOW your taste buds to be tantalised by the best local produce at the Cranbrook and Tenterden Food and Drink Festival.

A tented food village will be open at The Cellars in Tenterden both days, accommodating more than 30 stalls piled high with food and drink from across Kent.

Chefs from local restaurants and pubs will be demonstrating how to get the best out of Kent's home-grown produce and there will be lots of street entertainment on offer.

Celebrity chef Oliver Rowe will be hosting at evening at St Mildred's Church Hall in Tenterden at 7pm on Saturday, which includes a wine tasting session by experts from the world-renowned Chapel Down Winery. Tickets, costing £10, are available from The Lemon Tree Restaurant, Zest Cafe and the Chapel Down Winery.

Other attractions include an Apple Fair in Cranbrook High Street on Saturday, tours, beer tastings and festival menus. For full details visit www.tenterdentown.co.uk or pick up a brochure from various outlets in the towns.

ON GENERAL RELEASE

BURN AFTER READING (15)

A dark spy-comedy from Joel and Ethan Coen. Ousted CIA official John Malkovich's memoir accidentally falls into the hands of two gym employees (Brad Pitt and Frances McDormand). Agent Harry Pfarrer (George Clooney) is assigned to recover the disc while harbouring a secret that could cause even more upset.

GHOST TOWN (12A)

Romantic comedy where Bertram Pincus, a misanthropic dentist (Ricky Gervais), gets caught up in a supernatural love triangle. Pincus straddles a fine line between life and death but his luck runs out after he gains the ability to see ghosts. Even worse, every ghost wants something from him and they won't stop at any time, day or night.

EAGLE EYE (12A)

Shia LaBeouf is a young slacker whose twin has died mysteriously. This is also linked to a woman (Michelle Monaghan) who finds that her child is missing. Soon the two strangers realise they have been framed as terrorists. They must work together to extricate themselves while being led by a mysterious voice.

Three's a happy crowd

BY KATE WHITING

UNLESS you have been living in a cave for the last week, you won't have escaped the buzz around Disney's High School Musical 3.

What started out as a modest TV movie back in 2006 has fast become a global phenomenon, with its first theatrical release smashing UK box office records for advance ticket sales weeks before it is even on the silver screen.

And then there was the London premiere, where thousands of young fans skipped school and queued for hours to get a glimpse of the show's fresh-faced stars Zac Efron, Vanessa Hudgens and Ashley Tisdale.

For anyone who doesn't have HSM-obsessed children, it's hard to understand the fuss about the squeaky-clean extravaganza.

It's almost Grease-lite – no smoking, swearing or sex – but plenty of colour, catchy tunes, soppy lines and spine-tingling dance sequences.

Vanessa, who plays one half of the romantic leads Gabriella and Troy (Zac), sums it up neatly: "Kids can relate to us and our characters. They've been to school with the Troy, the Gabriella and the Sharpay (Ashley), and they look up to us in a sense because it is a world where there is no sex or drugs or violence, it's just a movie that makes you feel good."

The chocolate box-pretty 19-year-old is sipping tea in an elegant London hotel suite the morning after the premiere.

"I got butterflies in my stomach, it was just the craziest feeling," she says of the red carpet madness.

The original High School

SITTING PRETTY: The clean-cut, squeaky-clean fare served up by High School Musical 3 has struck a chord with young fans

VIEW THIS PREVIEW

yourkenttv.co.uk

Musical follows the well-known Grease/Romeo And Juliet love story, as basketball jock Troy and beautiful maths geek Gabriella fall for each other against all odds and land the leads in the school musical.

The second instalment moved the action to a country club in the summer holidays, where the devilous Sharpay conspires to steal

Troy from Gabriella, but all ends happily with a Troy and Gabriella duet and their first kiss.

Senior year now sees them back at school, where they are torn between their love for each other and their friends – and the all-important college choice.

"I really love watching the characters grow," Vanessa admits.

"In the first movie they meet, in the second they get a kiss and in the third movie, I feel like you really get to see them fall in love. It's just this sweet, respectful, innocent love they have for each other and I love watching it."

In another sprinkling of Disney magic, the two cast members have also fallen for each other and were recently pictured cosying up at a Parisian cafe. Is it tough for Vanessa to kiss her real-life love on screen?

"It is," she says with a shy smile.

"When I was about 11, I was in an acting class and my teacher said, 'You're going to have to do this some day', and she gave me that scene from My Girl where they kiss."

"I don't think I've ever been more embarrassed in my life, but I thank her now because I have to do it. It's a really great part of the story, though, very sweet and romantic."

While High School Musical may have come to an end for the seniors, a younger generation of characters from the year below looks set to continue the franchise.

Would Vanessa want Gabriella to cameo in a High School Musical 4?

"I don't know. I've heard rumours about it, but I haven't been approached, so I don't really know anything about it."

"Right now, I'm just excited for the fans to see this one."

Keeping people in their own homes

FOLLOWING predictions that many homeowners could fall into negative equity, Yvette Cooper, the Chief Secretary to the Treasury, has pledged that the Government would act to prevent people from losing their homes.

The Government has injected billions into the banks as a result of the financial crisis, prompting some analysts to suggest that repossessions should be suspended entirely.

But Ms Cooper feels a balanced approach is necessary. "We need a more responsible approach to repossessions," she said.

"I think repossession needs to be a lot rarer. We need to do everything we can to keep people in their own homes."

Safety first when looking for digs

PARENTS are being urged to check the safety of digs when their sons and daughters choose to live off campus when they attend university.

Just 11 per cent of students and parents think that checking with landlords for a gas safety record is a priority – whereas it is actually a legal requirement.

Only 15 per cent take the trouble to verify that boilers are sound, according to a safety survey by property analysts.

Fewer than one in ten think the presence of carbon monoxide alarms in their digs is important when they're choosing a property, despite the very real threat posed by this 'silent killer'.

The Health and Safety Executive is now warning landlords to ensure gas appliances are safe for tenants after two people were poisoned by carbon monoxide from a boiler in their flat that had not been properly maintained.

In pole position when the recovery starts

HOLDING FIRM: David Elliott of Cluttons; Cllr Kevin Lynes, KCC cabinet member for regeneration; Paul Wookey of Locate in Kent; and KCC leader Cllr Paul Carter

THERE was good news at this year's Kent Property Market Report – unveiled at Brands Hatch MotorSport Vision Centre – which revealed that despite the economic downturn the county's property market showed a steady performance in 2007/08.

Experts say this will leave the local economy in a good state when the market stabilises.

The average office rental value grew by two per cent, industrial rental value rose by 1.7 per cent, with retail rents increasing by 2.5 per cent.

The report cautioned that Kent will not be immune from the downturn. However, the continued investment in infrastructure and regeneration projects will see it in a healthy position when the markets rebound.

The report was written by Kent County Council and property experts Cluttons.

BY NICK AMES

Cllr Paul Carter, the leader of KCC, said: "Amid the gloom of an unstable national economy, I believe we have a lot to look forward to and be positive about in Kent."

"Significant projects are really moving forward, including our transformational Building Schools for the Future programme, the innovative Turner Contemporary building in Thanet and the exciting academy roll-out."

"With the 2012 Olympic Games, the development of Thames Gateway and the introduction of the high-speed rail link to London coming on-line, Kent offers enormous opportunities to residents, businesses and visitors."

Locate in Kent had a successful year, with demand for office space in June 2008 up by more than a third compared with June 2007.

The Channel Corridor and Thames Gateway remain particularly popular locations for occupiers. David Elliott, partner at Cluttons, said:

"The lettings market is offering real value at the moment, as property is widely available, with residential and commercial occupiers in a position to maintain current rental rates."

"We expect this trend to continue in the foreseeable future, especially for commercial occupiers, as Kent offers a very attractive rate compared with the UK average."

Kent's regeneration projects progressed well during the year, particularly in the growth areas of the Thames Gateway and Ashford.

Paul Wookey, chief executive of Locate in Kent, said: "Between April 2007 and March 2008, Locate in Kent recorded 235 new projects."

"This included more interest from international companies looking to set up a base in the UK."

"In these difficult economic times, we expect businesses will look to relocate to more cost-competitive and high-quality property options, and Kent and Medway are ready to service this demand."

MOTORS NEWS

Hidsons Seat revamp defies recession talk

MAYOR of Maidstone Cllr Denise Joy officially re-opened Hidsons Seat Maidstone site after a £10,000 refurbishment.

Hidsons' marketing manager Vicky Plevin said the investment was a "show of confidence at a time when people are trying to talk the country and motor trade into a recession".

The new look reflects the Spanish brand's positioning as the VW group's affordable sporting marque and Hidsons' brand manager John Davies said it coincided with the recent launch of the sharply styled Ibiza supermini (pictured) and heralded the Cupra performance version.

Skoda BlueLine follows MINI route to success

SKODA is going after the Mini-look with this Fabia BlueLine limited edition.

Just 500 will be made featuring a special package – Mini-esque white roof, new 15-inch alloys and lowered suspension – and showing how stylish the five-door Czech-built supermini can look.

The BlueLine is also a bargain that brings £750 of add-ons for a premium of just £160 against the Fabia 2 upon which it is based. The 1.2 70bhp petrol BlueLine costs £9,990, while the 1.4 80bhp diesel costs £11,450.

Small IQ shows just how clever Toyota's become

TOYOTA'S IQ label for its equally abbreviated new city car will highlight the model's genius and flatter people bright enough to buy it.

Order books are open for January delivery, priced from £9,495 – not cheap for a 'three and a bit-seater' against desirable rivals like the Fiat 500.

However, the IQ comes with 15-inch alloys and lots of goodies, nine airbags and an average fuel consumption of around 65mpg plus road tax-exempt 99g/km of CO2 emissions to sweeten the deal.

HEAP BIG 'UN: Despite its rather ungainly styling, Peugeot's Partner Tepee handles and rides better than the shape suggests and proves to be a remarkably economical car

Peugeot Partner people car will win you over in the end

PEUGEOT has adopted 'Tepee' as sub-branding for some no-nonsense people carriers.

If this suggests to you that they corner rather like a Red Indian tent caught in a high wind, you can forget it; the Partner Tepee and larger Expert handle and ride better than their functional shape suggests.

But they do echo the portability and functionality of structures that enabled tribes like the Apache to cope with a nomadic life.

I put the Partner to the test by roaming Normandy for a week with the family and realised why vehicles like this are so popular in the greater rural mass of France.

It started with the Peugeot Partner Combi, closely related Citroën Berlingo Multispace and rival Renault Kangoo van-based MPVs.

All are modern takes on those former Gallic workhorses, the Citroën 2CV and Renault 4, but the new Partner Tepee (from £11,215) goes further with a body that is funkier and less 'Postman Pat', sitting on a more sophisticated Peugeot 309 car chassis rather than the comely yet slightly wallowy underpinnings of the Partner/Berlingo van. This explains the improved driving dynamics, aided by decent engines.

Our test car had the top spec trim and 107bhp 1.6-litre diesel engine pairing – the Outdoor HDi 110 (£15,305).

It just purred and economy was exceptional – the onboard computer rarely showed less than 40mpg and averaged around 50mpg.

We had just one gripe; the rear seats don't rake to allow those in the back to sleep easier on long runs, but the Tepee does so much else: it is a brilliant picnic wagon inside or out with sliding rear doors, versatile seating, all that storage and a huge and sheltering lift-up tailgate clearing the heads of people well over six foot.

I particularly liked the 'letterbox' shelving above the front seats – great for all the travel documents and so on for a journey like ours.

The test car also had the £550 Zenith roof with extra vents, rooflockers and more glazing to make the cabin even airier.

For budget practicality, the Tepee is hard to beat.

USED CAR ROUND-UP: OUR PICK FROM A KEY SECTOR

AFFORDABLE MPVs

THERE has always been a call for converting vans into budget people carriers by adding rear side windows and a back seat. But the explosion of the MPV (multi-purpose vehicle) created an opening for factory conversions and current hard times are likely to make these even more sought-after on the used market by cash-strapped families. Small businesses love them too, because they can switch from a van role during the week to become family holdall at weekends. Top-notch diesel options make them reliable and cheap to run.

carsforrent.co.uk

FIAT DOBLO

NOT the greatest looking MPV, but the Doblo probably offers more space to the pound than any other. Odd looks disguise surprisingly good handling and comfort, with easy access via two rear sliding doors. Fiat diesel technology makes it attractive too, although it is best to go for the top of the range 103bhp turbodiesel to get anything like decent acceleration with a load – it hits 60mph in 12.6 seconds compared with the entry level 1.2 petrol version's 19 seconds.

RENAULT KANGOO

RENAULT invented the MPV thing with the Espace and then the Scenic, so the French marque was bound to compete in the budget sector. The Kangoo is both spacious and comfortable, with a pliant ride. It is available – at a premium price – with a lively 80bhp diesel, although petrol options are competent too. Two rear sliding doors add to the car's huge high roof space efficiency and flexibility and there are 4x4 Trekka versions if you need the extra traction.

PEUGEOT PARTNER COMBI/CITROEN BERLINGO MULTISPACE

WE cheated on numbers this week, but these two models are virtually identical cloned sisters even if the Citroën (pictured) is more common due to keener prices and higher sales when new. Probably the most refined if not the most spacious models in this class, they are pleasant to drive and have two rear sliding doors. The legendary power and refinement of their PSA diesels is also likely to tempt growing families, dog lovers or people leading a sporty lifestyle.

The Royal School of Military Engineering Instructors

Salary £28,219 - £30,312

MidKent College (MKC) is delighted to partner the Royal School of Engineering (RSME) at Brompton Barracks, Chatham.

We will provide the trades and technical engineering training for over 8500 Royal Engineers each year and are recruiting a number of key posts to complement the teams already in place at the RSME.

If you are a qualified & experienced Trades Engineer looking for a change in career, then this could be the ideal opportunity for you.

For Trades roles, you are unlikely to have formal teaching experience but this is not essential as we will provide you with the skills you need and work with you to help you gain the appropriate teaching qualifications.

If the prospect of passing your skills onto Royal Engineer sappers appeals to you, then consider the positions shown below and get in touch with us.

- Electrical Instructors
- Heating and Plumbing Instructors
- Painter/Decorator/Plasterer
- Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Instructors
- Electrical and Mechanical Draughtsman
- Land Surveyors

These are key appointments and the successful candidates will need to demonstrate that they have the practical skills and knowledge of their trade and have the potential to develop into first class instructors. Training will be provided.

Executive Assistant Development & Marketing

£18,430 - £22,845 • 37 HOURS PER WEEK
FAVERSHAM

Operating in the drug & alcohol and mental health sectors, KCA (UK) provides a wide range of high quality and innovative specialist services for adults and young people.

Your role will be central to the development process: preparing, producing, proof-reading and collating tender documentation and presentations. You will also gather information, coordinate tender timetables and create and manage a development database. You will be involved in marketing KCA by helping produce and coordinate marketing activity, managing the sign-off process and helping with invoicing.

You will provide general support: drafting and producing a wide range of correspondence, arranging meetings, managing diaries, maintaining files and records, managing messages, acting as the first point of contact to all callers and visitors to the team and providing committee or project secretarial service which may include minute taking.

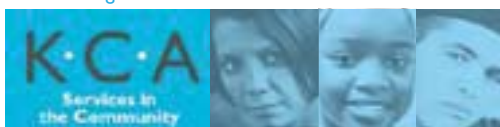

To thrive in this role you will need exceptional written and verbal communication skills and the ability to use Word and PowerPoint to create well set-out and engaging documents and presentations. Attention to detail, excellent proof-reading ability and good time and deadline management are essential. You will possess strong interpersonal and influencing skills, be flexible and adaptable, creative about gaining information, professional and remain calm under pressure.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Masterclass lecture by marketing guru

WORLD-renowned marketing strategist Dr Paul Fifield will be speaking in Kent next month.

Dr Fifield is giving a presentation called Marketing in a Recession, on Wednesday, November 12, during a Chartered Institute of Marketing event at Kings Hill conference centre, West Malling. He will explain that recessions are not always negative and that benefits can be gained during a credit crunch.

Dr Fifield said: "Downturns have always been with us. For a lot of people, though, this will be their first recession and they are understandably concerned, but why look on the bleak side?"

The lecture is open to all, and each delegate will receive a copy of his forthcoming book, Masterclass. To book, visit www.cimkent.co.uk.

Brand new tool will help protect image

GETTING the name and branding of a new product right is crucial to success.

But many businesses invest time and money in developing names and identities only to find that others have legal rights to them.

Now Business Link is offering a helping hand in choosing the right name and this month has introduced a 'company name and trade mark checker' tool to its website: www.businesslink.gov.uk/south-east/namechecker.

Richard Green, adviser manager, said: "Choosing a viable company name and ensuring you don't infringe trademarks is an important stage in developing the image and identity of your business."

Agency's award delight

WARD & Partners has been awarded the title of Best Estate Agency for Kent.

The tribute came in the Daily Mail UK Property Awards 2008.

The award will be presented at a gala dinner at the Royal Lancaster Hotel, London, on Friday.

Aldo Sotgiu, managing director of the firm's north and east Kent area, said: "These awards mean a lot to myself, my fellow managing director Lee Crane and all the team."

Ward & Partners has 44 branches throughout the county.

Banking on a return to sensible lending

■ BY TONY PATEY

FINALLY there is some good news on the horizon for small businesses across the county.

Banks have been told by the Government to roll back the clocks and start lending to smaller firms at the sort of levels seen in 2007.

Up until now, the main reason for the reluctance has been banks have been frightened to lend to each other, but over the last days positive signs indicate cash might start flowing again with a lower lending rate between them – the so-called Libor (London Inter-Bank Offered Rate) – hopefully fuelling the revival.

In fact, although Kent firms have not found it a bed of roses with banks recently, banks are still very much in business and firms with good track records are still getting help.

Barclays Commercial Bank said figures gleaned nationally have been mirrored in the county – and if they are to be believed they show the commercial landscape is not all doom and gloom.

Research on loans levels by UK small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) with £1 million-plus turnovers shows that since the beginning of 2008, 16 per cent of companies have taken out loans of £500,000 or more, an increase of three per cent on the same period of 2007.

Roger Cowap, Barclays area corporate director for Kent, said: "National figures are reflected locally where we have already funded significant deals this year."

"There is a perception that we are declining most loan applications, but as long as a business has a strong management team and a good proposition then we want to help and in this section of the market over nine out of ten loan applications are successful. We are very much open for business."

Dr Richard Roberts, SME market analysis director, said: "Overall, we have seen a slight increase in loan applications in recent months, in contrast to the trend in 2006/07, while application success rates for established SME customers remain at over 90 per cent."

"The findings of the study indicate that established SMEs are borrowing to capitalise on business growth opportunities and are receiving the support from lenders to do so."

"These figures go against any suggestions that UK SMEs are experiencing limited growth potential and indicates confidence despite current market conditions."

"Many UK enterprises are in a relatively strong position to borrow and this should help these firms to benefit from the upside of the business cycle over the next few years"

The research also comes as the Bank of England continues to maintain its stance on curbing further inflationary pressure by not dropping interest rates.

TO THE RESCUE: Chancellor Alistair Darling wants banks to start lending to SMEs at 2007 levels

Picture PHIL HOUGHTON

NEW BLOOD: Phil Relf knows relegation from Division One has increased the need for young talent

Relf: the pressure is on

CRICKET

KENT Academy coach Phil Relf completes a year in the job this month knowing the pressure is on him to bridge the gap between the club's 2nd XI and the first team.

With Kent relegated from Division One of the County Championship, combined with the loss of Matt Walker and Neil Dexter, the need for new young talent has never been greater.

Problems filling the number three spot in the Kent batting line-up have yet to be addressed as both James Tredwell and Geraint Jones failed to impress to any great degree when given the opportunity. Kent captain

Rob Key held a meeting with the club management last week, which included Relf, to discuss opportunities for the county's young players. Relf, who took over from Paul Farbrace last year, knows he will be judged on the quality of players he oversees as they make the transition from 2nd XI cricket to the first-class game.

He said: "There's additional pressure now and rightly so, because if your job is Academy director and your goal is to produce players who are going to be match-winners in first-class cricket, and you are not doing that, you are not doing your job.

"These things do need time, but with the investment in our youth programme and the Academy, we have got to start producing players.

"There will be opportunities with us in Division Two, but the young lads have got to earn the right to play there, rather than be put in just for the sake of it.

"It would be nice for a Sam Northeast, Alex Blake or Warren Lee to be given a run of games, not just judged on one game, so we find out about them."

Another defeat has Sharks all at sea

DOVER RFC continue to find the going tough in London 2 South after they slumped to their fourth defeat in a row at the weekend.

The Sharks were beaten 24-13 at second-placed Basingstoke on Saturday.

Dover have not won a game since the 28-14 win over Old Colfeians in the second fixture of the season and have since dropped to ninth in London 2 South.

It doesn't get any easier for the Sharks as they entertain league leaders Dorking on Saturday.

The Surrey side have won every game so far this season and are sure to prove a tough test for the league newcomers.

Kingwell and Sly fill their boots for Hythe

HYTHE Town have all but guaranteed their spot in the next round of the Kent Premier Division Cup after thrashing Sporting Bengal 10-1 at the weekend.

Striker Pat Kingwell hit a hat-trick for Paul Fisk's side, while Ben Sly hit a brace and goals from Joe Neilson, Gavin Ransley, Gary Mickelborough, Dave Cook and Aaron O'Leary settled the game.

Town surged back to the top of the Kent League last Tuesday night after a comfortable 3-1 win at Faversham Town.

Sly's brace and another from Kingwell have put Hythe in the driving seat at the top of the Premier Division.

Delighted Hess dreams of a Whites Christmas

FOOTBALL

BY TOM HOWARD

DOVER Athletic continued their relentless march to the Ryman Premier League title with a comfortable victory at Canvey Island.

The Whites opened up a six-point lead on second-placed Staines Town thanks to goals from strikers Frannie Collin, Shaun Welford and Sammy Moore.

Dover took a first-half lead thanks to Collin's header. The Whites striker met a Moore flick-on to beat the Canvey goalkeeper via the underside of the bar.

The home side were unlucky not to equalise five minutes after the restart, but the referee ruled the goal out for an infringement on Dover stopper John Whitehouse.

Former Ramsgate striker Welford continued his good goalscoring form with a well-taken effort on the hour mark. After picking up a ball from Alan Pouton, Welford took the ball around the Canvey goalkeeper before steadying himself and firing home.

The points were Dover's with five minutes to go when John Keister's right-wing cross found

Moore, who cut inside a defender before guiding the ball into the far corner.

Delighted Dover boss Andy Hessenthaler said: "The players were fantastic once again. There isn't much more I could have asked from them. We played really well in the first half and we could have killed the game off then, but we missed a couple of really good chances.

"It's not an easy place to go and get three points so I am delighted. To be fair to Canvey, they played well and had a goal ruled out in the first half, which I felt was a little harsh, but my players told me there was a foul."

It was Dover's 11th win out of 12 so far in the Ryman Premier and Hessenthaler admits the challenge for his players is to see if they can maintain that form for the entire campaign.

The Whites were without defenders Olly Schulz and Craig Cloke, together with midfielder Jon Wallis, but Hessenthaler expects them to be back soon.

"I have said all along the importance of having a good squad and it seems to be paying off," he said. "We've got to keep the momentum going. If we can stay in this position until Christmas, then we have real chance of promotion this season."

£200,000 debt could finish off Folkestone

FOOTBALL

BY DAVID PRITCHARD

THE full extent of Folkestone Invicta's crippling financial problems was revealed to supporters in a meeting at the Buzzlines Stadium on Saturday night.

Former Ashford Town chairman Mark Jenner, who is acting as a consultant for the Seaside, explained the club was more than £200,000 in the red. Half the bill is made up of a claim by the Inland Revenue for unpaid tax accumulated over the past six years.

Jenner, who has experience of operating under similar conditions when he took over at Ashford in 2001, will attempt to negotiate a settlement on the club's behalf.

He told Yourshepway the club would fold if it could not come to an arrangement over the unpaid taxes.

"It's such a large number it would be fatal to the club," he said. "If I don't sort this out in the next few weeks then we would have no alternative but to become insolvent."

Fans leaving messages on the club's forum were amazed by the extent of the debt. While supporters' club chairman Clive Arnold is fearful about the immediate problems, he remains optimistic for the future.

He said: "There will always be a groundswell to keep it going. There might be 1,000 people in Folkestone interested in the club but most don't go all the time. It boils down to how much Folkestone wants a football team."

Manager Neil Cugley has been in charge at Invicta for more than a decade, but the problems could force him out if they cannot be sorted out quickly.

With wages no longer paid to the management team as well as the playing squad, he will review his position on a monthly basis.

Cugley has been in football management for more than 20 years but admitted this was the most difficult period he had faced.

He said: "I suppose this is the toughest situation because you are letting down a lot of people. I have had problems before when I was at Ashford and here at Folkestone, but this is the most dramatic one I have had. I'm a positive person and I think everything will be resolved."

Invicta exodus begins after squad's freebie

FOOTBALL

IT WAS the end of an era at the Buzzlines Stadium at the weekend with several of Folkestone's players moving on to pastures new this week.

With news that the club will be unable to pay any players for the foreseeable future due to the financial difficulties at Invicta, boss Neil Cugley expects a number of his key players to move on.

Craig Wilkins, who joined from Dover in the summer but featured sporadically due to injury, signed for Ashford Town and played for the Nuts and Bolts at the weekend.

Both Nick Humphrey and Lee Gledhill have joined Met Police, while Mark Green will leave this week.

Folkestone moved to second place in the Ryman South with a goal in each half from Jimmy Corbett and Matt Bourne.

Cugley doesn't know how many of the team will stay with him at the club for the remainder of the season, but can understand why players will be looking elsewhere.

He said: "It's sad. You put a lot of work in during the summer to put a team together and now they have to get other clubs."

"It's not just that they are not getting paid – for the lads who travel down it's costing them money, so it needs to be sorted out."

"They signed a contract and thought they were getting paid a certain amount this year and you build your life around that figure. It's a problem, but some might stay."

RALLYCROSS

BACK ON TRACK: Pat Doran's family have been instrumental in reviving Lydden Hill's fortunes

Championship returns to 'home of rallycross'

LYDDEN Hill circuit will host a round of the 2009 European Rallycross Championship, bringing the series back to Britain after a 12-year absence.

The Dover circuit was told by motorsport governing body the FIA last week that its bid to host the championship had been successful.

Russia and Finland also tabled a bid to host the event, but were unsuccessful.

The world's most popular rallycross championship last visited the Dover circuit in 1996.

Circuit owner Amy Doran is delighted to bring the series back to the 'home of rallycross' and is expecting a possible record crowd for the event.

The circuit's biggest crowd was in 2007 for Lydden Hill's 40th anniversary, where 8,000 fans flocked to the track.

She said: "It is a great honour to be able to host the event and bring the championship back to Britain after such a long time."

"We are hoping to attract a crowd of about 30,000 and it may even be broadcast on television."

"It was great to beat the likes of Russia and Finland. The sport is huge over there, so I was quite surprised when I heard the result."

The announcement of the championship returning to Lydden Hill marks a turnaround in the circuit's fortunes.

A year ago its future was in doubt after the lease from McLaren International had expired. The Doran family, who are well-known in rallycross circles, stepped in to save the track.

The family, including former British champion Pat Doran, have revamped the venue, an achievement recognised by the FIA's decision to award Lydden the European Championship.

However, the Dorans have more work to do before the European Rallycross Championship can go ahead, as a new section of track needs to be added.

Amy Doran said: "The track isn't ready yet but we hope it will be early next year."

"FIA regulations state there has to be a certain amount of gravel and tarmac sections, so we have to add a new section which will probably cost £100,000."
